HOT FIGHT IN PROSPECT.

HOT FIGHT IN PROSPECT.

Danville Liquor Dealers May Try to Get Licenses in Chatham.

Chatham, Va., April 2i.—Much speculation has been indulged in for the past few days at the probability of more than one liquor dealer of Danville applying for license to seil whiskey in Chatham. Several from Danville have been to Chatham since the election in Danville, and it is currently reported that options have been secured on locations farpiaces to do business, but no notices of applying for license have yet been posted. Parties claiming to be in a position to know stated on Tuesday that notices would not be posted before Monday of next week. The antiliquor advocates, who are very strong here, are making preparations to put up a most determined opposition, and every inch of ground will be contested. Chatham has been without the licensed sale of whiskey since the early part of 1898, and in no time of its history has it made greater progress. The license fixed by the Town Council for the sale of liquor is 4,000 annually, and it has been generally believed that this would deter any who wanted the privilege. The license was put at this price, thinking it would be prohibitive. The town has never held a wet and dry election, but the Council for many years past has been controlled by the antilliquor advocates. The outcome is being watched with much interest, and the fight promises to be the warmest ever waged on the question at issue.

FORTY-FIVE BOYS IN CORN CLUB.

Girls in Surry County Also Will Compete in School Exhibits.

Surry, Va., April 24.—The farmers of Surry County have been slow in taking hold of the progressive method of farming. But now they are waking to the fact that Surry can, and will, show that her land is equal to her sister countles in fertility.

The county demonstrator has enlisted forty-five boys in the corn club. There are a number of girls who will compete for the prizes in the school exhibits in canning and cooking and in other things.

The farmers have organized for the purpose of having a county fair this fill. The committees are at work getting the people interested in this much-needed, but so far neglected, work.

The conference held in Richmond was a great inspiration to those who attended from this county.
